

Our Practice Areas

We pursue our mission of developing and amplifying innovative solutions to education's most significant challenges worldwide through three core Practice Areas. Our Practice Areas represent both our expertise and the aspects we believe will drive meaningful, sustainable change in the education and society as a whole.

Innovative Leadership

The most significant challenges in the education sector require bold and innovative leaders to solve them. Through the lens of leadership and workforce development, CE International serves as a pioneer in the field of Education Diplomacy and promotes best practices for professional development in the education field.

We promote Innovative Leadership through:

- Center for Education Diplomacy and Leadership
- Connecting peers through our vast global network
- Celebrating innovative mindsets through articles in Childhood Education Innovations and our Journal of Research
- Custom course design for professional development.

Rethinking Education

Creative and innovative ways to address major education challenges are necessary to support children's optimal learning and development. Global emergencies, such as disasters brought on by climate change and the Covid-19 pandemic, implore leaders to reassess what education and learning can be and mean to global society.

We promote Rethinking Education through:

- Global Citizenship Education and Global Schools First
- Posing critical question about education in the pages of our magazine Childhood Education Innovations
- Marketing and Global Communication projects and initiatives that include different cultural perspectives on education.

Child Health and Well-Being

Child well-being is crucial to a child's ability to learn, and a more holistic view of children's development is crucial to help them thrive before school, in school, and beyond. This includes understanding the impact of societal conditions such as poverty, war, hunger, disease, and other tragic afflictions on development and learning, while also addressing the critical issues of mental health, socio-emotional development, and resilience building.

We promote Child Health and Well-Being through:

- Trauma-Informed Practice Training and Coaching
- International Code of Ethics for Educators
- In-person and virtual training to parents and caregivers
- Articles and briefs that outline the importance of child health and well-being.
