

Do you identify as someone with refugee/immigrant experience?

Would you like to become a teacher in the U.S.?

Now taking applications:

Pathways to Teaching Project

Apply now to be a Pathways to Teaching Project Fellow. Fellows will be members of an online community of practice that supports resource sharing, dialogue, and both individual and collective growth alongside peers, mentors, and facilitators in your region and from across the U.S. Small stipends will be awarded.

Project Fellows will:

- Explore teaching career pathways
- Learn (more) about the U.S. school system, education trends, and teaching methods
- Earn micro-credentials (digital badges or certificates showing their skills and competencies)
- Build a network of support to reach their goals
- Share their cross-cultural and transnational teaching and learning experiences with others
- Create their own personalized career plans
- Advocate for U.S. school systems to be more welcoming, inclusive, safe, culturally sustaining, and equitable

Participation is free but space in this cohort is limited. Apply before November 5, 2023.
