

Center for Business Champions

at Childhood Education International

Creating win-win partnerships between business leaders and child development leaders

The Center for Business Champions (CBC) supports business executives and childhood development leaders around the world in building effective and lasting partnerships.

Partnerships between business and child development leaders contribute to a better quality of life for children through opportunities to grow and learn foundational skills that will support their development and eventual entry into the workforce.

Through investments in children's education, healthcare, and protection, business leaders can help working parents be more productive on the job and can make communities and nations places better places to live, work, and invest.

[ceinternational1892.org/
businesschampions](https://ceinternational1892.org/businesschampions)

Bridging Gaps: Building Communication and Collaboration to Achieve Mutual Goals

Country-Specific Technical Assistance for Child Development Leaders

We provide tailored advising and mentorship to child development leaders on strategy development, action plan creation, outreach, and other services to support development of a network of business champions.

Training Institute for Child Development Leaders

We provide an online training and workshop series, networking opportunities, and a resource library to support child development leaders aiming to connect, communicate, and collaborate with businesses.

Support to Business Leadership

We provide advisory services to support development of a CSR/ESG strategy that includes child development, grow understanding of the child development sector and engagement opportunities, and help develop family-friendly employee policies.

Build partnerships to advance child development

Contact us at cbc@ceinternational1892.org to learn more, and join our mailing list at ceinternational1892.org/stay-informed.